ABOUT TARIRO

Tariro UK is a small, compassionate charity providing care, long-term support and opportunity to vulnerable young people in Zimbabwe.

We support around 45–50 young people at any one time, meeting their educational, emotional, and day-to-day needs in a nurturing, family environment.

Our support continues for as long as each young person needs it, until they are able to live independently with confidence and dignity.

Tariro, means "hope" in Shona, one of Zimbabwe's main language.

Hope is at the heart of everything we do.

OUR MISSION & VALUES

More than funding – A family approach

At Tariro, we do more than provide financial assistance. We support young people as parents would – with care, encouragement, and long-term commitment.

- We know every young person by name
- We understand their individual strengths and challenges
- We support both academic and non-academic pathways
- We stay involved until each young person is ready to stand on their own

Whether a child dreams of university, vocational training, or practical work, they are valued, respected, and supported.

OUR STORY

Tariro's story began in 2009, when two Zimbabweans – Phillip Mutasa and Father Nicolas Stebbing CR – along with an English student, recognised an urgent need in their community.

Together, they established the Tariro Youth Project, creating a home for vulnerable teenagers in Harare. What started as a single initiative quickly grew as the scale of need became clear.

Today, the Tariro Youth Project (TYP) is a locally run Zimbabwean charity overseeing five projects, including four outside Harare.

Overseen by Phillip, Beata Tumushime and Edwin Komayi – these projects ensure that young people living with relatives or attending boarding schools have the care and resources they need to succeed.

HOW WE HELP

Tariro's support is rooted in the belief that young people thrive when all their needs are met.

Alongside education, our projects provide the practical and emotional support a family would offer, giving young people stability during critical years of growth.

Tariro-funded projects provide:

- Food for children who would otherwise go hungry
- Clothing, toiletries and other basic necessities
- Counselling and emotional support, particularly for those who have lost parents or experienced abandonment
- Personal guidance, mentorship and encouragement, supporting school work as well as day-to-day life guidance

This holistic, family-based support helps young people build confidence, resilience, and the motivation to succeed.

SUPPORT OUR WORK

Your support changes lives

Since becoming a UK charity in 2009, Tariro has grown from supporting 10 young people to helping over 100 vulnerable young people by 2025 through Tariro UK–funded projects.

Every donation – no matter the size – helps provide:

- Education and training
- Food, clothing, and basic necessities
- Emotional support and guidance
- A pathway to independence and dignity

When you give to Tariro, you are investing in long-term change, not short-term relief.
